FINANCE AND TRADE. THE MONETARY SITUATION has still for its prominent feature "plenty of rield abundance for the wants of manlenty of money to give employment to very industrious man and woman in he land. Pienty of money-yet comile, fields are untilled, mines unexplori, and industrious men and women uffer and weep because they have no our boasted wisdom, we must manage our business very ill, or a whole people would not be put to privations for want of money to use, while those who have money are troubled because no one is using their plenteous funds, manage to attend to the details of every day affairs, but the grand aggregateanagement of trade on a national scale—is a matter beyond our intelli-gence, and our lack of ability is seen o-day when the wailing of poverty and plenty of money" exist side by side. Almost everywhere the plethora of money is spoken of in the compercial reports of the newspapers. yet so far is New York overflowing that the Times of that city tells us: "Some of the banks have extended their accomodations to their customers in the west and south." The same paper, obruary 23d, reports: "The weekly reurn of the associated banks, issued from the clearinghouse on Saturday, showed me radical and unexpected changes. There was a further expansion to the extent of $1,738,900 in loans, but a decrease in all the other items, the specie ing down $3,240,100, legal-tenders $2,254,600, deposits $2,608,500, and cirulation $928,500. The large decrease in specie and legal-tenders attracted most attention, and the changes in these items, more particularly specie, was generally attributed to the manipulaons in the gold room during the week to make cash gold dear. Whenever the "aqueezing" process is resorted to by gold speculators, it is always safe to look for an irregular bank statement, and the clearinghouse return this week is no exception to the general rule. In conection with the specie average of the banks, it is necessary to state that the customs receipts were unusually heavy, and the absorption of so much gold by the treasury natu-rally assisted to decrease the average." Exchange was offering in plenty to our banks yesterday at the usual rates; buying on New York and the east at I dissount, selling at i premium; on New Orleans | discount, selling at par.
